FAQ's about Range Star

Who is the credit card processor for Range Star, and what are the fees?

The credit card processor for Range Star is Global Payments, in both Canada, and the US. The credit card fees will be highly dependent upon volume, but on average they are 2%-2.5%, and $0.08 per transaction.

What connection type does Range Star use?

Range Star has the ability to be connected in multiple ways. It comes with a SIM card inserted, and will connect via cellular network. You can also hardwire a connection directly into a router connected to the internet. It also has the ability to run off WIFI. You can choose any, or all of the above connection methods. If one connection fails, (i.e the cellular network goes down) the device will fail-over to the next connection method.

How does the mobile APP work?

Our app is connected to your customers Range Card Account, allowing them to make purchases with either their Range Card, or by using a QR code generated in their mobile app. They MUST be issued a Range Card to utilize the mobile app. If you choose to do so, the customer can also top up their account via the app with a credit card.

What are the annual fees for Range Star?

The first year of service fees and technical support are included with the purchase of the Range Star system. After the first year, you will be invoiced $600.00 annually for the full system, and $400.00 annually for the credit card and Range card system for technical support and service fees.
